Through our collaboration with the Kemmy Business School our research highlights that the weight of leadership today

likens the role to a vocation. There is clear and urgent need to create challenging but safe spaces for Leaders to be exposed to the latest business thinking, to rethink their norms of leadership, and to learn from each other. Wisdom in Action is a unique leadership networking experience. It brings together the best of the Kemmy Business School and Industry Expertise to support today's Leaders in their effort to positively impact their people and organisations.

Wisdom in Action is our latest and possibly most innovative Executive Education offering

Wisdom in Action is about how you have impact locally and globally, how you sustain yourself and others, and how you perform, everything is set in that critical business context. It is our most innovative Executive Education offering. I believe it is unique because, in direct response to insights you shared with us, we have created a Leadership Experience which is actually co-created with each group. In the early stages you set the agenda. You engage with the best of the KBS and the UL Campus as an experience, together, taking 6 days spread over a few months. We cross-the campus, responding to your needs, we journey using our passion topics as Academics, our organisational psychologists, hearing from other Business Leaders, moving from our business school, to our creative writing school, to the Irish Academy for Music and Dance - and with a few surprises along the way. Throughout, you also have an Executive Coach to support you personally. This experiential development path, embracing not just you as a person but the reality of your business environment, is what you have told us you need.

We in Kemmy Business and our colleagues across UL are ready. Bring your wisdom, your war stories, your questions, we will bring ours, and together let us put that into action. We really look forward to meeting with you.
